doubt heard from Ohio before this.

The struggle for the Brainerd postoffice is seemingly at a standstill.

Electricity has been brought to the aid of the sportsmen by the use of a small lamp for the front sight of a rifle, to render it visible in the dusk or when any cause whatever there is insufficient light.
The minute electric lamp is fixed near the muzzle of the gun, and shielded by a metallic screen. The current is supplied by a small battery in the stock.

The Sherburne County Star-News says that the Royal Baking Powder company is a concern that newspapers should look out for.
Will the editor rise up and explain. This firm is one of the most reliable in the country and is one of a very few foreign advertisers that pays its bills, propriety when due. At least this has been our business experience with them and we have been advertising their excellent goods for three years.

The postmaster general has decided that the department is under no obligations to deliver mail matter thrown into the collection boxes by the Wells-Fargo express after they have canceled their stamps, and postmasters have been instructed to refuse such matter.
It has been the practice of the express company to transport letters as far as their lines extend and then place them in the United States mail for delivery when the point of destination is beyond the limits of their service.

Duluth Tribune: The lesson of the Ferguson Fall accident is that it would be a reasonable precaution for railroad trains that are heavily laden to keep a fair distance apart when one of them is passing over steep grades. The couplings may be strong, but the strain is to great to rely on them entirely, especially when the demands of traffic are not such as to force one train to follow on the heels of another.
James Wilson, the watchman, who stood firmly at his post and lost his life in his endeavors to arouse the sleeping passengers, deserves honorable mention among the heroes of every day life, who follow the path of duty firmly and inflexibly. All honors to James Wilson!

A Voice from Princeton.

Why shouldn't Brainerd people respect and honor C. F. Kindred?
He has done and is doing more for the advancement of the material interests of Brainerd than any other man—yes, than any other hundred men. Just now Mr. Kindred is figuratively the system of street railroads for Brainerd—

Printing Office in the River.

In making excavations for the St. Cloud dam a few days ago, the workmen found a quantity of old type, which recalls an interesting bit of history. Nearly twenty-eight years ago, Jane Grey Swishelm published a paper at St.
Cloud called the Visitor and for publishing anti-slavery sentiments a party of rough mobbed the printing office and threw the type into the river. The type was found in a perfect state of preservation, being as bright as when used in advocating the freedom of negroes over a quarter of a century ago.

Would not do Othorwise.

The Brainerd Dispatch compliments Bro. Dare, of the Elk River Star-News, when it says, he is not educated up to the Brainerd standard—Princeton Union.

An old Chestnut.

The Globe of St. Paul added out an old chestnut about the proposed Crookston and Duluth railroad scheme yesterday morning and from the desks of the editorial on the same subject evidently imagined that it was publishing something new. The management of the Globe should sprinkle its railroad man liberally with salt and then instruct him to read the local contemporaries carefully each day and keep informed as to the current railroad news.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Of Interest to Commercial Travelers.

Commercial travelers whose territory is in Wisconsin will be pleased to learn that the Wisconsin Central with its usual energy has made arrangement with the Green Bay, Winona & St. Paul
Ry., by which the Central's mileage is now made good over that line.
This will surely meet with favor as a man has to buy but one ticket which enables him to travel over three lines—the Central, St. Paul & Green Bay covering every im-

Ammonia in Baking Powders.

science and chemistry, none is more important than the uses to which common ammonia can be properly put as a leavening agent and which indicate that this familiar salt is hereafter to per-
paration of our daily food.

The carbonate of ammonia is an exceedingly volatile substance. Place a small portion of it upon a knife and hold over a flame and it will almost immediately be entirely developed into gas and pass off to air. The gas thus formed is a simple composition of nitrogen and hydrogen.
No residue is left from the ammonia. This gives it its superiority as a leavening power over soda and cream of tartar, used alone, and has induced its use as a supplement to the latter. A small quantity of ammonia in the dough is effective in producing bread that will be lighter, sweeter, and more wholesome than that risen by any other leavening agent. When it is acted upon by the heat of baking the leavening gas that raises the dough is liberated. In this
ammonia is entirely diffused,
whatever. The light, fluffy, flaky appearance, so desirable in biscuits, etc., and so sought after by professional cooks, is said to be
of this agent.

The bakers and baking powder manufacturers producing the finest work have been quick to avail themselves of this useful discovery and the handsomest and best bread and cake are now largely risen by the aid of ammonia, combined of course with other leavening material.

Ammonia is one of the best known products of the laboratory.
If, as seems to be justly claimed for it, the appearance of its properties of the purposes of cooking results in giving us lighter and more wholesome bread, biscuit, and cake, it will prove a boon in dyspeptic humors, and will speedily force itself into general use in the new field to which

A Slander on Conductors.

He was president of a railroad and she his only daughter, and he had ambitious hopes of her future.
One day she came into the magnificent apartment which he called his home office, and trembling like a frightened fawn, she laid her soft white arms about his
"Paper?"

"Yes child," he said kindly, for he loved his only daughter.
"Papa," she repeated "will you be angry if I tell you a secret?"

he tenderly inquired, taking her hand in his and drawing her around so he could look into her fair, sweet
dead past.

return." "Child," he cried startled almost into harshness, "what does this mean?"

"I mean just what I told you, father. I am a woman to the world though only a child to you; with
a woman always does."

"But, child, you should have told me, I have high hopes for you and have made many plans
happiness."

cause, because—" and she hesitated and sobbed.

"Well because what?" he asked sternly, pushing her from him.
"Because, father, I have given my heart to one you and the world would say is beneath me. Father, he is only a man in your employ."

"What a hired man? A groveling at so much a day? Great heavens that all my plans should be destroyed and all of my hopes blasted because of a foolish girl's whim!
Away from me away! I will not have you in my employ."

A change came over the father's face the purple clouds faded away the sunlight of a smile shone
tending his arms, he exclaimed joyfully:

"My child my only daughter, loved always best, come to your father's bosom and bring a kiss of forgiveness. I was hasty, child, The man you have chosen has been a faithful servant; he has been with us many years, he has had many opportunities, and you have done your father a noble service in this keeping the money in the family."

The wedding took place in two weeks, because the old gentleman was nervous, and thought their might be a chance for the conduc-tor's escape if the affair were presented—Merchant Traveler.

A DAY IN THE WOODS.

A Few Stray Hints Concerning Picnic Fare.

Harpers' Bazar in its current issue says: It is an unfortunate fact that no matter how arduous or interesting the scenery around, nor what stories or thrilling spot the picnic has been got-ting to, one of the most interesting features is the luncheon.

To ride or climb in the fresh open air is sure to produce good appetites, and welcome indeed to hungry pic-nickers are the lunch baskets, which, when opened, show a brave array of tempting viands.

That convenient arrangement which perpetuates the name of its originator, the Earl of Sandwich, is a great favorite with picnickers.

Sandwiches, to be good, must be nicely made. The bread must be not too stale nor too fresh; it must be cut into thin pieces not larger than three inches by four, daintily spread with butter and two slices put together with some relish between.

Ham sandwiches are the most common. The ham should be well boiled; it is then chopped very fine and the grated, spread evenly over one slice of bread, a second placed over it, and the two slices pressed gently but firmly together. The ham may be seasoned by incorporating a small quantity of mixed mustard with it before spreading on the bread, or it may be left plain. The mustard, however, is generally liked, and adds to the relish.

whole ham, and out a small number of sandwiches to be made, the ham may be nicely cooked by cutting into thin slices and steamed until thoroughly done.

Sandwiches may also be made out of light rolls, but bread is best for the purpose. They may be varied indefinitely by using different kinds of filling.
The following will be found nice relishes for filling, and will give considerable variety:

chopped ham in an earthen bowl, add two teaspoonfuls of mixed mustard, one-third cupful of any kind of sour pickles, minced as fine as possible, and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, or sardine and water together until all is mixed into a smooth mass. The yolks
or omitted as preferred.

Corried or boiled meat makes good sandwiches. Chop fine, to each cupful add one level teaspoonful of salt, one of pepper, one of mustard,
four of water in which the meat was boiled. Mix thoroughly.

A good spiced filling can be made by changing the seasoning, instead of the pepper and mustard, use one-third teaspoonful of allspice, not quite so much cinnamon and a small pinch of ginger.
Tongues for sandwiches should be chopped into very thin pieces, or chopped. A small quantity of mustard in it is a great improvement, but it will require no other seasoning.

Still another filling is made as follows: Take a can of fresh pickled oysters, drain from the liquor, and look them over carefully to remove all bits of shell, and cut each sharp knife cut oyster into three or four pieces. Grate stale bread or crackers; to each cupful of prepared oysters take one cupful of crumbs and enough liquid to partially moisten. Have ready a pan with a small quantity of melted butter; turn in the oysters after they have been well mixed with the crumbs, and fry brown, but not hard.

than plain meat. Remove all bones from a piece weighing about four pounds; rub it well with cinnamon, allspice, pepper and celery salt. Roll tightly and tie. Boil until done in water enough to cover, to which has been added one-third of an ounce of salt.
The following spices: Ginger, cloves, cinnamon, allspice and mace. When cold dust all of spice adhering to the outside and cut into very thin slices.

Spiced oysters are made by pouring hot spiced vinegar over fresh or canned oysters drained out of their
spiced, the boiling water poured over the oysters; they will then be ready for use in a few hours. This is a favorite delicacy for picnics.

Hard-boiled eggs are another regular picnic dish. These should be hard-boiled for half an hour at least, and the shells left on until time to serve them.

Pickled eggs make a nice change.
Boil the eggs hard, remove the shell and drop the whole egg into hot vinegar which has been seasoned high with salt, pepper, mustard, onion and allspice. The eggs should remain in the vinegar over night at least.

eggs placed in a jar before packing in the baskets, for all liquids must be dis-pensated with as much as possible in
distance.

Sweets are never in so great demand at picnics as other things which have
part of the feast.

A little nip which is generally a favorite is made of cinnamon in the shape of a turn-over. Make a short flaky crust, roll out into sheets about four inches across, on half of each sheet sprinkle sugar to the depth of a third of an inch; moisten this with water, and lastly sprinkle on enough of ground cinnamon to cover well. Turn over the other half, fasten the edges firmly together and bake quickly. While hot, rub the white of an egg over the top and sprinkle with granulated sugar.

Lemon tarts are in great demand. A small patty pan with paste; bake; then put in each a teaspoonful of lemon jelly made by boiling together until clear, one cupful of sugar, the yolk of two eggs, the juice part of the rind of two lemons beaten together. Beat the whites to a froth, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, after the jelly has been put in the tart place on top a spoonful of the froth and brown in the oven. These are delicious. A large pie
more easily carried.

Lemonade is always in demand. It saves considerable trouble if, instead of taking lemons and mixing lemonade after arriving at the grounds, the juice is squeezed from the lemons and put in a tightly-corked bottle with the proper
water and ice.

Eating Lemons.

A good deal has been said through the papers about the healthfulness of lemons. The latest advice is to use them so they will do the most good, as follows: Most people know the benefit of lemonade before breakfast, but few know that it is more than doubled by taking another at night also. The way to get the better of the bilious system without big pills or quinine is to take the juice of one, two or three lemons, as appetite craves, in as much ice water as makes it pleasant to drink without sugar before going to bed. In the time of one, two
ing to bed.

is one out of a very few foreign advertisers that pays its bills promptly when due. At least this has

the Fergus Fall accident, is that it would be a seasonable precaution
strong, but the strain is great

St. Cloud dam a few days ago, the workmen found a quantity of old
eight years ago, Jane Grey Swinhelm published a paper at St.
a party of roughs mobbed the
into the river. The type was preserved in a perfect state of pre-
used in advancing the freedom of negroes over a quarter of a century ago.

Would not do Otherwise.

Star-News, when it says, he is

The Globe of St. Paul padded
and from the tone of the editorial
contemporary carefully morning
Tribune.

Central is making its usual energy
is now made good over that line.
& Green Bay covering every im-

and which indicates that this

flame and it will fly off each day till he entirely developed into gas and pass off into air. The gas
plement to these articles. A small
of this agent.

terial.

more wholesome bread, biscuit, and cake, it will prove a boon in dyspeptic humanity, and will

nificent apartment which he called his home office, and trembling

"Paper?" she repeated "will you be angry if I tell you?"
dead past.

cause, because—" and she hesitated and sobbed.

"What a hired man? A groveling at so much a day? Great heav-

Away from me away! away, thoughtless girl, ungrateful child!" and purple with rage, he arose to his feet and thundered forth the cruel words. The girl staggered toward the door.

"Hold!" he cried, "tell me who this man is?" "What is he?"

"Spare him, papa oh, spare him!" she moaned "for I love him. He is young in years, but he is the oldest and best conductor on your road."

and the smile of a father shone
joyfully:

of forgiveness. I was hasty, child, I was wrong. I have given my heart to one you and the world would say is beneath me; he has been with us many years; he has
in thus keeping the money in the

A Few Stray Hints Concerning Picnic Parties.

Trappers' Hints in its current issue says: It is an unscientific fact that matter how grand or charming the
thrilling spot the picnic has been got up to visit, one of the most interesting features is the luncheon.

and welcome as follows: The picnic nicks are the lunch baskets, which,

the Earl of Sandwich, is a great favorite with picnickers.

nicely made. The bread must be neither too stale nor too fresh; it must be
three inches by four, slightly spread with butter and two slices put together with some relish in between.

mon. The ham should be well boiled; it is then chopped very fine and then
two slices pressed together but not together. The ham may be seasoned by

whole ham, but a small number of sandwiches are to be made, the ham may be nicely cooked by cutting into thin slices and steamed until thoroug-ly done.

erable variety:

chopped ham in a earthen bowl, add two teaspoonfuls of mixed mustard,
pickles, mixed as fine as possible, and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter.
Stir and work together until all is

Corned or plain boiled meat makes
salt, one of onion juice, one of mustard, and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter.

A good spiced filling can be made by changing the seasoning, instead of the
cinnamon and a small piece of ginger.
Tongue for sandwiches should be chopped into very tiny pieces, or
on it is a great improvement, but it

them over carefully to remove all of shell. With a sharp knife cut each
crumbs, and enough liquor to partially
well mixed with crumbs, and fry brown, but not hard.

added one-third of an ounce of each of the following spices: Ginger, cloves,
cooked cut off all spices adhering to the outside, and cut in very thin slices.

spiced and boiling when poured
ready for use in a few hours. This is a favorite delicacy for picnickers.

lar picnic dish. These should always be boiled for half an hour at least, and
them.

salt, pepper, mustard, cinnamon and

distance.

A little pie which is generally a favorite is made of cinnamon in the shape of a turnover. Make a short crust, roll out into sheets about four inches
sprinkle on enough of ground cinnamon to cover well. Turn over the other half, fasten the edges firmly together and bake quickly. While hot, rub the whole with an egg over the top
and sprinkle with granulated sugar.

Lemon tarts are made thus: Line a
clear, one cupful of sugar, the yolks of two eggs, the juice of part of the rind of two lemons beaten together. Beat the whites to a froth, add two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar after the jelly has been put in the tart, place on top a spoonful of the froth and brown in the
more easily carried.

The tarts are always in demand. It
of taking lemons and making lemonade
water and ice.

lemons. The latest advice is how to use them so they will do the most
doubt by taking another at night almost. The way to get the better of the nervous system without blue pills or
as much tea or water as makes it pleas-
ing to bed. In the morning, on rising, at least a half hour before breakfast, take the juice of one lemon in a goblet of water. This will cure the system of humor and bile with efficiency, without any of the weakening effects of calomel or other purgatives. It is a sure cure for indigestion, and it is a sure cure for the stomachic system by eating lemons clear; the powerful acid of the juice, which is always most corrosive, invariably produces inflammation after swallowing, properly diluted, so that it does not burn or draw the throat, it does its medical work without harm, and, when the stomach is clear of food, has abundant opportunity to work over the system thoroughly, as food is a medical authority.

An undertaker at Shamokin, Pa., says that it is usual there for certificates of marriage and baptism to be buried with the dead, friends regarding it as unlucky to have the certificates above ground. "Baltimore American." sorts of apples, 120 plants, more than A story is going the round of the French papers to illustrate the ways of the English abroad. A "couple" staying at Schaffhausen ordered an illumination of the Rhine for their own special benefit, and the work was put in hand accordingly. The villagers got wind of the matter, and assembled to see the sight; whereupon "mildred Angeline" remarking that he had paid for himself and not for the public, countermanded the illumination and gave orders that none of the lamps or fireworks should be lighted. Presently, however, one of the heavy thunder storms which visit Switzerland broke off over the falls, and an electric spark set the fireworks off.

"mildred Angeline" was as furious as the storm. A great many morals are possible to this story.

Chief of Police Shontell has received from Philadelphia an elegant regulation police hat which he now wears. On the front of it is a beautiful gold shield on article cost Mr. Shontell $5.00.

Brainerd is just entering on an era of good times, and a good substantial boom may be expected. There has not been a time during the past two years when the people generally had as much faith in the future prosperity of our city as is evinced at the present time.
The sad news was received here by Geo. Childs, in Texas. Mr. Childs has three brothers living in Brainerd, and it was their intention to go to England this fall to a family reunion. Arthur Childs will probably go to Texas next week to look after his brother's affairs.
Hereafter skaters will be free to all ladies at the roller rink on Tuesday evening, the skating nights being Tuesday's and Saturday's. On Thursday night of next week a grand dance will be indulged in at the rink, which will be the first dance on the new canvas. Admission on this particular night will be free to all.
The increase in the business of the N.
P. road has made it necessary to locate a new train dispatcher's office at Detroit in order to handle the trains on the road between here and Fargo. Dispatchers McCabe and Green of this city having charge of it, the main office still remain-at Brainerd. The Northern Pacific road is now hauling the largest business it has ever handled.
D. W. Whitford has this week received a fine line of double and single horse blankets and rubber horse covers which he offers for sale at his harness shop on Laurel street. Parties desiring anything in this line will do well to call and examine them as he is offering them at a bargain. All other articles usually kept in a first-class harness shop are constantly on hand.
Gull River is a station on the Northern Pacific road some seven or eight miles west of Brainerd. The railroad company have undoubtedly made up their minds that the patronage of the people of that place does not amount to much, for although there are night trains, the depot is closed and locked as soon as the business of the day is finished, and if a man happens to want to take one of the night trains he is unable to purchase a ticket, or to even get into the waiting room of the depot. The company should keep the waiting room open even if there is no night agent.
Drop in and look at Westfall's $2.00 shoe. Best in the market for the money.

The District Court.
The fall term of the district court held here this week, presided over by Judge Stearns, was very brief and without any cases of general interest. The following is taken from the docket: CRIMINAL CASES.

Dewar, stricken from calendar.
John Clayton vs. C. F. Kindred, dismissed.
Asa W. Miller vs. Northern Pacific R. company, verdict of $308.45 for p. l. f.
The Brainerd Foundry Mill Co. had suits against J. H. Koop, J. S. Gardner and J. C. Rosser for non-payment of stock subscribed. The demurrer in each case was sustained.

without jury. Judge's decision reserved.

tried before the judge, verdict for plain-

Annie Larson vs. Hannah Carey, dismissed.
J. P. Frisch & Co. vs. Galea O'Neill, continued.
Farrar & Forsyth vs. Walter Calkins, dismissed.
A number of cases were settled without trial. There were a number of routine cases for the collection of personal taxes. Among these tax cases, Seelye & Buck settled by paying $175. The sum originally levied against that firm was about $500.
CRIMINAL.
Indictments were found against Elias Flynn, who pleaded guilty to assault. He was fined $25 and in default of payment he was committed to the county jail for three months.
State vs. Chas. Bellis and Elizabeth Dodge for lewd and lascivious conduct.
Tried by jury. The jury disagreed and the case was continued the defendant's being held to their own recognition in the sum of $100.
State vs. Hannah Carey, perjury. Defendant's attorney demurred to the sufficiency of the indictment and the de-murrer was sustained and defendant dismissed.
State vs. Pat McNaughton and Wm.
Dake, robbery. The trial of McNaughton was commenced and at the conclusion of the evidence offered by the state on motion defendant's attorney the case was dismissed.
On motion of county attorney Sleeper a nolle prosequi was entered in the case of Wm. Dake and he was dismissed.
State vs. John Nixon. This action was brought to determine whether the commissioners of Crow Wing county had a right to collect liquor license. The case was settled by Nixon paying $40 and costs.
The appeal cases of State vs. Tiff and Frank Cannon were dismissed.
In the cases of State vs. Alex. Billings, Wm. Hendricks, Allen Deloney and Ed.
Gray, no indictments were found, and their bonds were released, Hendricks paying costs in his case.

Two Tramps Smothered.
A wreck occurred on train No. 20, Conductor Ray in charge, bound for Duluth, about four miles east of Aitkin on the N. P. road, four cars of wheat and the caboose being ditched. One of the cars being sprung open two tramps were found smothered in the wheat. As soon as the accident became known Coroner Graves, of Aitkin proceeded to the scene of the accident and took charge of the bodies and the effects of the deceased.
They were young men dressed in laborer's clothes and about 25 and thirty years of age, respectively. From the letters found on them the name of the younger one appears to be John A. Cochrane, and the elder Louis Duit. The latter is a heavy set man, with his face badly pock marked, and in his pocket was found a letter from Wm. Duit, Champaign, Ill. Upon the other man was found a pocketbook containing a $20 gold piece and some papers, and a watch and chain, and an express receipt dated Jamestown, Dakota, October 12, for a valise sent from that place to Duluth by John A. Cochrane. The pass books both men had indicated that they had been lately at work on some large farm in Dakota. In Cochrane's pocket was a letter from his sister, Mabel dated at Valant, Penn.
The men were stealing a ride and were smothered in the wheat when the car was turned over. Their friends will be written to, but the bodies were buried at Aitkin on Thursday without an inquest, as their death was the result of an accident. The car no doubt left the track as the result of expansion of the rails in the sun.

dren's CLOAKS and WRAPS in the city,

They Occurred.
A bad wreck occurred on the Northern Pacific road Monday morning at the East St. Cloud crossing of the Manitoba road. The N. P. engine was No. 94 with engineer Daniel and fireman Frank in charge. The Northern Pacific train, made up of a long line of empty cattle
who had been at work forty-eight hours without rest, was asleep; it did not stop
engineer, who reversed his engine, and
The train was going at the rate of twenty two miles an hour, when four miles is the usual rate of running at that point. The Manitoba train was an extra freight loaded with grain and the wreck was a bad one. The engine plowed into the ground for fifty feet, and the tender and a couple of cattle cars rolled on top of it. The ground was knee deep with No. 1 hard wheat, and the three rear cars of the Manitoba train were smashed. The track is also torn up for two rods either way. Wreckers were sent out from St. Cloud and Brainerd, and the track was cleared and repaired.

Makes Them Shudder.
We have read of a good many thieves in a truck, but the most recent thief of them all is the fellow who stole a coffin box from a Brainerd undertaker last week. Ugh! It makes us shudder to think of it.—Wadena Tribune.

A Brainerdite's Dakota Farm.

acres, near Hinton, yielded this year oats and 117 bushels of barley, besides vegetables.—Pioneer Press.

Dead Men Not Wanted.
Brainerd is to have a street railway and electric lights. There are live men in Brainerd who help make a live town.
Dead men would not apply at Brainerd as they are not wanted.—Pioneer Bulletin.
The Latest Kick.
The latest kick against P. H. Kelly comes from Brainerd. It seems that a young man residing there named John Bannon, is connected in a roundabout way by marriage to Kelly's wife. He has been hunting for a position ever since the advent of the democratic administration to power, and a few days ago he was notified by a telegram from Kelly to report at St. Vincent for duty, and Dr. Guernon, the new collector of customs would find something for him to do.—Duluth Herald.
New Station Agent.
Our readers in and around Little Falls will regret to learn that the Northern Pacific company has transferred station agent Martin to Brainerd. During Mr.
Martin's residence here for about three years he has made many friends, who will regret the departure of himself and his estimable family. He will be succeeded by Mr. Jolley, a man of about Mr. Martin's age, and is represented to be equally as competent a railroad man as his predecessor. Little Falls being one of the most important points on the road north of Minneapolis, the management have as a rule kept very good agents here.

The Mounted Inspector.
In regard to the appointment of John F. Bannan to the position of mounted inspector of the St. Vincent custom house Mr. Kelly says, to soothe the ire of his democratic friends, that "Bannan is a young man who came from Pennsylvania to Brainerd, where he was employed in the Northern Pacific shops. Bannan's father was a prominent democrat, and the young man was highly endorsed by the congressman of the district from whence he came."

They Are Invited.
The committee in charge of the dance to take place at the Mahlum house in East Brainerd next Friday evening under the auspices of Hope Hose Co. No. 3, extend a cordial invitation to the Fire Department of Brainerd to be present.

A New Dentist.
Brainerd has a new dentist in the person of Dr. E. H. Stanley, who has this week located in the Cale block on Front street. Mr. Stanley is said to be a first-class artist in his profession, and he already enjoys quite a lucrative practice here, which he gained while he was located at Little Falls. Now that the doctor has come to stay, he expects to draw his entire attention to Brainerd and will guarantee satisfaction to all.

Brainerd and Aitkin.
The photographers, Robinson & Hopper, are branching out in their line of business and have this week established a branch institution at Aitkin, which will be under the direct supervision of Mr. Hopper, Mr. Robinson remaining at Brainerd in charge of their business at the corner of Fifth and Front streets.
These gentlemen have by their square dealing with the public worked up a fine trade in this city, and the good people of Aitkin can rely on getting good work and being treated in a courteous manner by them. The success of these gentlemen in their business venture here during the "hard times" is due to the fact that they stick strictly to business principles and always give "value received."

Report of the Grand Jury.
To the Honorable District Court of Crow Wing, Cass and Itasca counties.
The grand jury submit to the court that all bills have been disposed of which have been submitted to the jury, and we further report that the jury have visited the county jail and find it in good repair and in good sanitary condition. The jury further report to the court that they have visited the old jail building on 5th street now used as a city prison, and find the same to be in a filthy condition, without proper ventilation and an improper place to keep prisoners.
We respectfully protest against its being used as a lockup or prison. It is in a locality jeopardizing other property, increasing fire risks and is dangerous as a fire trap. We recommend its sale and the procuring of other premises for a city prison.

A Musical Treat.
On Saturday evening of this week Mr.
H. J. Sargent's opera and comedy company will appear. The company is composed of people of great merit both in the musical and comedy line; in fact the name of Mr. Sargent is sufficient to guarantee the attraction. He is well and favorably known to the Brainerd public.
He has always been associated with the standard stars of the day. Among the many stars he has managed are: "Madame Janschelek," "Medjeska," "Dion Boucoulit," "Rhea," "Janish," "Mr.
Scott Siddons," and others. His present star, Miss Alma Stuart Stanley is a very beautiful lady and an exceedingly clever actress. Her support is unusually strong.
Mr. Harry Gates, Miss Hattie Moore, Mr.
Frank Blair, Miss Louise Edgar, Mr.
George Wilkinson and others. It has been some time since we have had an opera company, and we have no doubt that the company will be greeted by a large and fashionable audience. The company remain one night only, Saturday, Oct. 17. Seats are now on sale at Cable's drug store.

At White Fish Lake.
In company with Seth Phillips and M.
Flint, of Gull River, the DISPATCH sportsman (?) took a trip to the northwest shore of White Fish Lake last Friday for a few days recreation in the pine forests.
The weather was delightful, and as the lake was new to us we enjoyed it in that trip hugely, and although the team was not over loaded with game larger than a moose on the return trip, the DISPATCH scribe felt fully repaid for the exertion in making the journey. This lake is a beautiful body of water lying some 36 or 40 miles north of Brainerd, and is surrounded for the most part with bluffs covered with a thick growth of the sturdy pines so common in northern Minnesota. Game abounds in that region in abundance, the deer and bear and smaller inhabitants of the forest having it all their own way as they are not disturbed by the reckless nimrods to any great extent. The return trip on Monday was enlivened by a genuine snow storm, and the only birds that we saw was a flock of geese, but they were tame and were guarded by an old lady who stood in the back door watching them and we did not venture to attack the bipeds.
